• contribute as an effective member of the team
• take responsibility for his/her own performance and take action to address identified personal development areas
• lead by example to ensure that IPH demonstrates commitment through its culture and actions, for all aspects of diversity in the population it serves, and the staff who provide its services
• promote the corporate value and culture of the organisation through the development and implementation of relevant policies and procedures and appropriate personal behaviour
• contribute to the IPH overall corporate and integrated governance processes to ensure its compliance with public sector values and codes of conduct, operations and accountability
• maintain good staff relationships and morale amongst the staff reporting to him/her. Delegate appropriate responsibility and authority to the level of staff within his/her control consistent with effective decision making whilst retaining responsibility and accountability for results.

4. CORE COMPETENCY AREAS

Policy and Strategy Development and Implementation

• To act in an expert advisory capacity on public health knowledge, standards and practice
• To support IPH in developing public health strategies and developing inter-agency and interdisciplinary strategic plans and programmes
• To be responsible for the development of multi-agency long-term public health programmes as required, based on identification of areas of potential health improvement, the diversity of local needs and the reduction of inequalities
• To ensure proper linkages between the health agenda and strategies related to the wider determinants of health.

Communication and Information Management

• To undertake and commission literature reviews, evaluative research surveys, audits and other research as required to inform equitable service and reduce health inequalities
• To understand the proper design, development and utilisation of major information, best evidence base and intelligence systems to underpin public health improvement and action for the population across disciplines and organisations
• To inform decision making based on the analysis of quantitative and qualitative data, research evidence and complex epidemiological and statistical information about the long-term health of populations in the Republic of Ireland and Northern Ireland
• To compare, analyse and interpret highly complex options for running projects identified as key public health priorities, and communicate this information across organisations and the local community
• Ensure compliance with standards for record management.

Leadership and Collaborative Working

• To support IPH in developing inter-agency and interdisciplinary short and long-term strategic plans for securing health improvement both in the general population and in vulnerable groups at high risk of poor health and/or reduced life expectancy, in partnership with a range of agencies such as those in the statutory, non-statutory, voluntary and private sector.
• To influence external agencies in their public health policy decisions by working with professional, managerial and population groups and other organisations in the statutory, non-statutory and private sectors
• To work collaboratively with colleagues within the IPH to ensure that key public health messages are conveyed in an accurate and effective manner
• To represent IPH at relevant regional, national and international working groups and meetings.

5. GENERAL RESPONSIBILITIES

Employees of the IPH will be required to promote and support the mission and vision of the service for which they are responsible and:
• At all times provide a caring service and to treat those with whom they come into contact in a courteous and respectful manner
• Demonstrate their commitment by their regular attendance and the efficient completion of all tasks allocated to them
• Comply with the IPH policies and procedures
• Carry out their duties and responsibilities in compliance with health and safety policy and statutory regulations
• Ensure the ongoing confidence of the public in service provision.
